FREDERIC AUSTIN (1872-1952)

Born in London. He studied privately with his mother and uncle and began his musical career as an organist, singer and teacher. He became one of the leading baritones of his day on both the operatic and recital stage. His compositional career was naturally overshadowed by his vocal fame but he produced, in addition to the Symphony, the symphonic rhapsody "Spring," the overture "The Sea Venturers" and several sets of incidental music.

RUTLAND BOUGHTON
(1878-1960)

Born in Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire. Studied at the Royal College of Music with Charles Stanford and Henry Walford Davies (1869-1941, composed a Symphony in G major and a Children's Symphony). In addition to teaching, his musical career basically revolved around the composition and performances of his operas. His attempt to establish an English operatic cycle similar to Wagner was unsuccessful. He also wrote symphonic poems and concertos.

DEREK BOURGEOIS
(b. 1941)

Born in Kingston on Thames.. He graduated from Cambridge University with undergraduate and graduate degrees in music, and then spent two years at the Royal College of Music where he studied composition with Herbert Howells and conducting with Sir Adrian Boult. He was a Lecturer in Music at Bristol University, conductor of the Sun Life Band and was Chairman of the Composers Guild of Great Britain. He left his teaching post to become the Musical Director of the National Youth Orchestra of Great Britain. Later on, he was appointed Artistic Director of the Bristol Philharmonic Orchestra and became the Director of Music of St Paul's Girls' School in London. He has composed prolifically in many genres and is best known as a band specialist. However, he has written instrumental works in all possible combinations and has surpassed Havergal Brian as Britain's most productive symphonist. The numbered Symphonies that have been recorded are band arrangements of works originally scored for normal orchestra. The unrecorded Symphonies are: Nos. 1 in G minor, Op. 10 (1961), 2, Op. 27 (1968), 3, Op. 57 (1977), 5, Op. 68 (1980), 7, Op. 158 for Tenor Solo, Chorus and Orchestra "The First Two Thousand Years" (1999), 9, Op. 185 (2003), 10, Op. 190 (2003), 11, Op. 195 (2003), 12 in C, Op. 197 (2003), 13, Op. 199 "The Unlucky" (2003), 14 in One Movement, Op. 200 (2003), 15, Op. 201 (2003), 16, Op. 207 for Soprano Solo and Orchestra "Songs of Mallorca" (2004), 17, Op. 208 (2004), 18, Op. 214 (2004), 19, Op. 216 (2004), 20, Op. 218 (2005), 21, Op. 219 (2005), 22, Op. 224 (2005), 23, Op. 226 (2005), 24, Op. 230 (2005), 25 in One Movement, Op. 232 (2005), 26, Op. 233 (2005), 27, Op. 235 (2005), 28, Op. 237, (2006), 29, Op. 238 (2006), 30, Op. 241 (2006), 31, Op. 244 (2006), 32, Op. 245 (2006), 33, Op. 247 (2006), 34, Op. 249 (2006), 35, Op. 250 (2006), 36, Op. 252 (2007), 37, Op. 254 (2007), 38, Op. 256 (2007), 39, Op. 258 (2007), 40, Op. 259 (2007), 41 in C major, Op. 261 "Sinfonia Andalusia" (2007), 42, Op. 262 for Soloists,

HAVERGAL BRIAN
(1876-1972)

Born in Dresden, Staffordshire. Except for some instrumental lessons by local teachers, Britain's most prolific symphonist was basically self-taught. He composed incessantly throughout his long life but only saw his music discovered when he was in his eighties. Prior to the 32 numbered Symphonies he wrote a "Fantastic Symphony" in 1907 that was later broken up to become "Fantastic Variations on an Old Rhyme" and "Festal Dance." For orchestra his other works include a Violin Concerto, Cello Concerto, 5 English Suites and 3 Comedy Overtures.

FRANK BRIDGE (1879-1941)

Born in Brighton. Studied with Charles Stanford at the Royal College of Music. Bridge was probably the most qualified British composer who never wrote a symphony. When he finally started one it was too late. The fragment listed below was arranged by Anthony Pople in 1979. Bridge had a successful career as a conductor and teacher and composed much music of the highest quality. His major works for orchestra include the suite "The Sea," Piano Concerto, Oration for Cello and Orchestra, the tone poem "Summer" and the rhapsody "Enter Spring."

BENJAMIN BRITTEN (LORD BRITTEN OF ALDEBERGH)
(1913-1976)

Lord Britten of Aldeburgh, to give him his full title, was born in Lowestoft, Suffolk. At the age of 13 he received composition lessons from Frank Bridge. He later studied at the Royal Academy of Music with John Ireland for composition and Arthur Benjamin and Harold Samuel for piano. His professional composing career began with scores for documentary films but he went on to become the most played, recorded and famous English composers of the second half of the twentieth century composing successfully in all genres especially opera. The major works for orchestra that supplement his rather unconventional Symphonies are Concertos for Piano and Violin, Double Concerto for Violin, Viola and Orchestra, Diversions for Piano Left-Hand and Orchestra and his most popular pieces, Variations on a Theme of Frank Bridge and the Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra.

BRENTON BROADSTOCK
(b. 1952)

Born in Melbourne. His higher musical education began at Monash College in Melbourne, continued in America at Memphis State University and culminated with lessons from Peter Sculthorpe at the University of Sydney. He joined the faculty of the University of Melbourne and has composed music for the theater, orchestra, band, chamber groups, solo instruments and voice. The Symphonies are supplemented in his orchestral catalogue by Concertos for tuba, piano and saxophone. His Symphony No. 6 for Didjeridoo, Soprano, Choir and Orchestra "Tyranny of Distance" appeared in 2009.
